Sponsored by the DC Academy of Collaborative Professionals (DCACP)

From the comfort of your office or home, meet with Sharon Strand Ellison once a month for 2 hours to deepen your collaborative practice skills. Through this webinar you will be able to discuss your specific cases, uncover issues that might be bogging the process down and map specific responses that can move people past power struggle to being able to find viable options. We'll work with a focus on relationships with both clients and other professionals. We can also work with issues regarding how to increasingly strengthen our ability to hold the integrity of the collaborative process and model non-defensive communication for our clients.
